Revolt Appears Quelled, But Tension Remains Acute In Reich

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 24—Events inside the Reich show that experienced German generals "have seen the writing on the wall," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today.

Addressing a luncheon of the Anglo-Netherlands society at a moment when reports of spreading German disaffection flowed into London, Eden again rejected any makeshift peace with the German general staff and said no real distinction could be drawn between it and Adolf Hitler's leadership.

"Recent events in Germany," Eden said, "will bring encouragement to those of our allies who have been overrun and who now see the Gestapo applying to German generals the methods previously applied to them."

"Hitler is merely a symbol of the German lust for power. This time we must make sure it will be utterly crushed and made powerless to rise again."

"Hitler is a link in the chain of German warlords. This time we must make quite certain the chain is finally broken."

LONDON, July 24—Neutral and diplomatic reports indicated today that tension remains acute in Germany though the army revolt appears to have failed or at least misfired in its initial stage.

Nevertheless German people in big cities, especially Berlin, seem shaken, confused and fearful, according to these reports.

Diplomatic and military circles in London believe that Hitler is now likely to resort to a war of frightfulness both at home and on the fighting fronts, with Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler ruthlessly crushing suspects on the home front and pursuing the scorched earth policy on the fighting fronts.

Morale Slipping

There is a strong belief in London that the morale of the German armies will soon crack and when that time comes the Allies will exploit their military advantages to the fullest. Therefore, a quick speeding up of the Allied offensive in Normandy is foreseen.

Smashing Blows, Not Revolt Among Troops, To Mark Hitler's End

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN NORMANDY, July 24—Smashing blows dealt by Allied armies, rather than a revolt among German soldiers on the Western Front, still promised today to be the speediest route toward the collapse of the Wehrmacht.

This much was evident after numerous batches of prisoners, captured since the attempted coup against Hitler, gave glimpses into the situation immediately behind the Nazi lines.

As anticipated, the German soldiers quickly were fed the sugar-coated Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels version of the assassination attempt—that Divine Providence had once again spared Hitler's life.

On the entire breadth of the American front there was not a single case reported, up to last night, of a German officer or non-com running over to our lines to escape the Gestapo, or of a Wehrmacht unit surrendering in the wake of revolt within the Reich.

Army Stands Fast
Although, in the long run, German morale will be shaken by the incident, there is no present evidence of outbreaks brewing in the German lines.

Here is what prisoners, captured late Sunday afternoon, indicated went on in the German lines:
Early Friday morning the German army received notice that a most important report would be forthcoming, and would be broadcast to all units. The announcement was Hitler's speech which absolved the army from complicity in the plot, but accused a small clique of officers.

Men in the forward areas, if under fire, received mimeographed reproductions of the broadcast. In dugouts and in outpost foxholes pencilled notes on the broadcast were passed around.

Historian Also Says Huns Will Refuse To Fight On Own Soil

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 24—Emil Ludwig, noted historian and refugee from the Reich, believes that Hitler will be slain by the German people and that the Germans will surrender to the Allies before fighting on their own soil.

Ludwig warned today that a campaign for "a soft place" would be launched by Prussian generals, "masquerading as democrats," after Hitler's final downfall.

"After Hitler's defeat no German will want to have been a Nazi," Ludwig said, commenting on the internal disorder in Germany. "The German people will more easily forsake Hitler, the adventurer, than the Kaiser, descendant of the traditional ruling house."

"The Prussian generals will try to save their skins by masquerading as democrats. They will pull Pastor Niemoller from out of the barbed wire and offer him, with a (Continued on Page Two)

HITLER ESCAPES BOMB DEATH IN BRITISH RAID

LONDON, July 24—Adolf Hitler, Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel narrowly escaped death in an Allied bombing raid in France a week before D-Day, the London Evening Standard reported today.

Quoting French civilians, the paper said that Hitler and his official entourage had just left an anti-invasion headquarters near Arramanche when bomb-carrying Spitfires came over.

FIGHTING MEN PRAISED

Peace That Will Prevent Future Wars Promised On Visit To France

LONDON, July 24—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in his first comment on the international disturbances taking place in Germany, was on record with the statement that "there are grave signs of weakness" in the Third Reich and that the war might end "earlier than we have the right to say."

Churchill, it was disclosed, made a three-day tour of the French Normandy battlefield, concluding with a visit to the Caen sector held by the British and coming within sight and sound of enemy gunfire.

He stopped at an RAF airfield long enough to congratulate the personnel on their accomplishments since D-day and to give his first-hand opinion of the startling developments on the German home front in the past week.

"There are grave signs of weakness in Germany," the prime minister said. "They are in a state of great turmoil inside and none can measure the extent. They are shooting each other. I cannot help that. (Loud laughter greeted this remark.) It might be that the fighting might come to an end earlier than we have the right to say."

At Advanced Base
Churchill's remarks were made at one of the most advanced Allied air bases in France, only a few miles from the front lines.

The men at the base had been told of the impending visit of an "important personage" only a few minutes before the prime minister's arrival. As they stood at attention near the landing strip, a plane approached from the direction of Caen and the front and out of it stepped the prime minister, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Lieut. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey, commander of the British Second Army.

The plane hedge-hopped just behind the men, then landed carefully in a grass patch some 30 yards from them. When the prime minister wearing his familiar mackintosh, hove into view, the men roared their welcome.

Churchill smiled, saluted and then mounted the dais that had been prepared for him. He praised (Continued on Page Two)

EDWARD BROWN DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

Edward Alva Brown, 76, a prominent attorney of Circleville and former judge in the Pickaway county probate court, died at 3 a. m. Sunday at his home, 425 East Main street, after an extended illness. He was a member of the Presbyterian church where he had served for several years on the bench of elders.

Mr. Brown was born June 11, 1868, in Walnut township and was the son of Joseph and Lucinda Brown. He was married February 1, 1899, in Pickaway county to Anna O. Bell, who survives, together with one son, James E. Brown, of Miami, Fla. He leaves also one brother, Charles Brown, of Ashville, RFD, and two sisters, Mrs. Clara Bowers, Ashville, and Mrs. Ona Bowers, of Marcy.

SMOKED OUT OF SAIPAN'S CAVES

ONE OF THE DIFFICULT tasks that faced American forces on Saipan was the job of overcoming the terror of civilians who had been told by Jap propagandists that the Yanks would torture them. They holed up in caves and had to be forced out with smoke bombs. The man with the baby on his back (top) looks with disbelief as he is assured that nothing will happen to him. A woman and her young son (bottom) hastily emerge as smoke fills the interior of their hideout. (International)

County Short $82,538 Of Series E Bond Quota In Fifth War Drive

Pickaway county was $82,538 short of its quota of Series E bonds for individuals Monday with the Fifth War Loan drive scheduled to end officially Tuesday.

Chairman Clark Will Monday issued a special appeal to all solicitors and banker members of the war finance committee to make a last-minute effort to go over the top in this department of the campaign. The drive ends Tuesday but all sales of E bonds through July 27 will be credited. Mr. Will said that it was not impossible to reach the quota of $294,000 if all workers will make a final appeal. Sales to date of E bonds to individuals only total $211,462.50.

In the Fourth War Loan drive 4,394 individuals bought $358,064 in E bonds. So far in the current drive only 2,722 people have purchased a total of $211,462.50 in E bonds, Mr. Will said.

The official report of the drive to date shows the county has exceeded its quota of sales of all issues to individuals, corporations and organizations except E bonds to individuals.

Total of all sales to date is $1,792,762.50, oversubscribing the county quota by $316,762.50. Sales of issues to corporations and organizations total $1,033,000. Quota was $856,000. Sales of issues to individuals (except E bonds), $548,300. Quota was $326,000.

Third Major Stronghold Of Japan In Marianas Invaded By U. S.

PEARL HARBOR, July 24—American assault troops battled on Tinian island today in the invasion of the third major Jap stronghold in the Marianas chain.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, announced the invasion and disclosed that landings were continuing.

Already smashed by weeks of bombardment by American aircraft and naval gunfire as well as field artillery based on nearby Saipan, Tinian was particularly ripe for conquest by American troops hardened by the victory on Saipan which lies across a three mile stretch of water.

Tinian possesses an exceptionally fine airstrip as well as other military installations invaluable for carrying on the war against Japan.

U. S. TO RELEASE GRIP ON NORTH AFRICAN TRADE

WASHINGTON, July 24—The State department is expected to announce today the appointment of a mission of government officials and business men to North Africa to arrange the surrender of present commercial controls by the government, in favor of private business.

Officials who are planning the expedition explained that the time has come when the government can step aside in North Africa and let trade return to private channels.

It was admitted, however, that this step was not being taken without considerable prodding by American business leaders. Business men made strong protests to the Foreign Economic Administration against the fact that the United States Commercial Corporation, a government agency, continued in control in North Africa.

The result of this pressure was an announcement June 28 by Sidney Scheuer of FEA that "missions of business" were being formed to visit various liberated areas, and that a mission already had been named to study trade possibilities in North Africa.

This statement, made in an address before an exporters association in New York City, burst like a bombshell in Washington, where the State department immediately protested that it had heard nothing of "missions of business men," and declared that no mission of any character could go overseas without State department approval.

Belatedly, conferences were held between FEA and the State department, with the result that the mission to North Africa, instead of being made up of business men alone, will also include officials of State and Commerce departments and the FEA.

FLYERS DIE IN SHOW TO SPEED WAR PRODUCTION

SPOKANE, Wash., July 24—Four Army flyers were dead today as an aftermath of an air show intended to persuade workers to stay on their jobs during the war.

Two Army attack bombers collided, exploded in mid-air and virtually disintegrated as they fell before the eyes of an estimated 100,000 persons watching the show, presented by the Spokane Air Service Command.

The planes were in a group of three attack bombers taking part in a procession of aircraft parading before the crowd, which was seated on a hillside. Fragments of the planes fell in a meadow near the foot of the hill.

Fifth Army Troops Battle Nazi Forces In Italian City Of Pisa

By International News Service
With Russian forces surging ahead along the entire 750 miles of the eastern front, the German radio reported today that Soviet infantrymen were battling in the streets of bypassed Lwow.

Earlier Soviet reports said that Russian troops had swept beyond Lwow to reach the San river on a broad front, threatening to sever the last rail escape route for thousands of Nazis trapped in and near Lwow, while holding positions only 150 miles from German Silesia.

The situation within the Reich was strained further during the night as an estimated force of 1,000 RAF heavy bombers blasted Kiel with 2,800 tons of explosives.

Berlin Bombed

As the huge force of British heavies smashed at naval installations in bomb battered Kiel, speedy Mosquito bombers roared over Berlin in a diversionary attack, and other British bombers attacked Nazi robot-bomb launching sites on the channel coast of France.

The German radio announced that enemy fighter formations were over Southwest Germany and Bavaria, indicating that aerial blows against the Reich were continuing into daylight hours.

Sharp local actions marked ground activity on the invasion front, with a strong German counter-attack retaking the town of Seves, three miles northwest of Periers. An Allied headquarters spokesman declared that the American position north of the Seves river was intact despite the loss of the town.

British units west of the Orne and south of Maltot improved their positions despite German counter-attacks, although the German radio claimed that Canadian forces had been ejected from the town of St. Martin Sur Orne, at the southernmost point of the British salient below Caen.

STASSEN WARNS NATION AGAINST OVER-OPTIMISM

CHICAGO, July 24—Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen, who was back home in Minneapolis today for a brief visit with his family before reporting to Washington, said during a stop-over between planes in Chicago that the progress of the fighting in the Pacific is "extremely favorable."

The former Minnesota governor, whose supporters in a number of states campaigned for his presidential nomination on the Republican ticket, refused to discuss the outcome of either the Republican or Democratic national convention.

He said he would not comment on politics in any form so long as he remained in uniform.

He had more to report on what is going on in the Pacific, having just returned from there after more than a year's service. He was promoted to commander only four days ago and is assistant chief of staff to Admiral William F. Halsey.

He was high in his praise for the men who took part in the hard-won conquest of Saipan and disclosed he had been with a fleet unit in that area. He said:

"The battle of Saipan was tough, and so is the fight at Guam. But we're getting set for a strike at the centers of the Japanese empire."

the men for the speed with which they had constructed the airfield and put it into operation and pointed out that the work of the Allied air force not only had been one of the big factors in the success of the invasion, but had also relieved the British navy of what he termed "a terrible cost in ships."

Churchill reviewed the course of the war from its darkest days to the present and, after discussing present events in Germany, turned his attention to the future.

"We will come to a peace," he said, "which will make it impossible for the kind of thing that brought about this war to happen again. It must be a peace that will insure broad justice and freedom throughout the world. It must be a peace that will lift our national life and that of other nations into conditions which give a far greater share of comfort, enterprise and freedom to mankind."

Visits Caen

Saturday Churchill drove through the rubble-strewn streets of Caen with Gen. Montgomery and Dempsey and did not waste much time at the tomb of William the Conqueror, who set out from Normandy to conquer England in the 11th century.

Earlier Churchill visited the Cherbourg peninsula and the American sector of the front.

Meanwhile reports from Germany and neutral sources concerning developments inside Hitler's tottering Third Reich continued to present a confused and contradictory pattern, but one through which a significant fact shone with crystal clearness: the crisis for the Fuehrer and his supporters has not yet ended.

"the poor suckers, they might as well swim out and drown."

The Nimitz communique stated that landings by the second and fourth Marine divisions which conquered Saipan were being continued against "light" opposition. Operations are being directed by Rear Admiral Harry W. Hill, commander of Group Two amphibious forces, with Major General Harry Schmidt, Marine commander of the Fifth Amphibious Corps, in charge of landing forces.

The Tinian operation marks the first time United States troops have mounted an invasion of a major Jap base while operations against another were in progress. As the action continued under protection of strong support by carrier aircraft and land-based artillery bombardment, the Guam attack was apparently proceeding smoothly.

Gain on Guam

The Guam operation passed the "beachhead" stage as American troops consolidated their positions and virtually closed a pincers around strategic Orote peninsula in their drive to encircle Port Apra.

Nimitz disclosed that substantial gains were made all along the front on Guam. The town of Piti has been occupied by American forces which landed north of Orote peninsula and the main airfield on the peninsula itself has been nearly cut off by Marines advancing northward along the western side of the island from shattered Agat. Piti, fourth largest community on Guam, which itself is the largest of the Marianas chain, commands the harbor of Port Apra. Control of the harbor which is the best anchorage in Pacific island waters, would give the American fleet an invaluable base for further operations against the Japanese.

Cabras island which provides a natural breakwater on the northern side of the harbor has been wrested from Japanese hands, Nimitz also disclosed.

First casualty figures on the Guam invasion also were released by Nimitz. These showed that losses in the opening stages of the attack were far under those suffered in the landings on Saipan. Through July 22, our losses were 345 Marines and soldiers killed, 110 missing, and 1,500 wounded.

Nimitz revealed that Army Air Force Liberators continued their neutralization raids against Truk, which lies 650 miles southeast of Guam. The Liberators dropped 75 tons of bombs on airfields and dock areas July 21. Only two enemy interceptors were seen and they fled from the American planes.

JAP SNIPERS HIT YANKS MOPPING-UP ON SAIPAN

DURING THE LATTER STAGES of the battle on Saipan, these Yanks landed on a Jap-held section of the beach during a mopping-up operation. ## Smashing Blows, Not Revolt Among Troops, To Mark Hitler's End

The events. The doctored version from the Nazi propaganda chief apparently beat Allied sources in getting the news to the German troops.

Many of the prisoners had copies of the Stars and Stripes, American Army newspaper, in their pockets and had evidently studied carefully our version of the events. The prisoners asked us many questions, eager for details of the plot. Despite this, the younger Germans—including the Hitler Youth—clung to the official version issued by Goebbels as the most trustworthy account. Almost unanimously the prisoners declared that they were "glad to hear that the Fuehrer's life was spared," and "that now the Nazi party would be able to take hold and wipe out the traitors and fight with a free hand."

They exhibited one-track minds throughout, but most of them admitted that they would rather go to the United States as prisoners of war than go back into the German lines.

SS Troops Loyal

It was useless to talk to SS troops. They continued to speak the Fuehrer's name in an awed voice. Still, there has been a good deal of grapevine talk in the last few weeks that the wehrmacht in the west will quit before another three months.

The news of the attempt on Hitler's life was received amongst the older German soldiers with lifted eyebrows. Some said, among themselves, that trouble was brewing for Germany and that maybe the end of the war was nearer than they thought.

None of the prisoners believed that there would be an immediate effect in the front lines except for a general tightening up. A sergeant from Baden, captured yesterday, said:

"When we were told that Himmler (Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief) had been given additional power with (Col. Gen. Heinz) Guderian in high command I overheard a couple of young officers remark that total war was now coming. Many of us old timers are pretty much confused."

The sergeant continued: "Many 'Fed Up' 'Lots of us are fed up and don't believe we have a chance to win the war. But we haven't any choice but to fight."

"We are convinced that our side, even if desperate, won't start poison gas warfare. We know how terrible it would be. The soldiers and the people back home are absolutely against it."

No one among the batch of prisoners said that he knew of any attempt by German officers to approach soldiers with plans for revolt. None of them believes that this will happen on the western front. Even a Hitler hater from Bavaria agreed with this although he said:

"To hell with Hitler. I'd like to shoot the whole bunch of —."

A couple of captured Westphalians declared that rivalry amounting to hatred between old line officers and SS officers became very marked recently.

A former Berlin lawyer, with a three-day growth of beard, probably gave the best summary when he said after long thought that in his opinion the wehrmacht would ripen for collapse most quickly and surely if subjected to hard and incessant Allied blows.

FARM FUGITIVES CAUGHT

LONDON, O., July 24—Two inmates of the London Prison Farm were back in the stockade today following an unsuccessful break for freedom. The inmates, Sam Haskins, 45, Columbus, and William Lindsay, 25, Cleveland, escaped while working in a corn field nearby. They were apprehended a few minutes after the break.

dozen other interned anti-Nazis, as a proof of Germany's new liberal mind.

"Here in America groups of German-Americans . . . will double their efforts to propagate a soft peace and an independent government for what they call 'the poor misled German people'."

He predicted flatly that "no German party or class will be willing to fight the invaders on German soil. The Allies will not fight any battles inside Germany; only some thousands of boys of the Hitler youth will die as idealists for their Fuehrer."

As for suicide, Hitler has "too little courage and too great a belief in his mission," the historian continued. "In his Munich putsch in 1923 he ran away from the guns and left a dozen of his comrades the honor of dying for him."

Saying that the Allied occupation of Germany should be continued, Ludwig added that "if the Allies permit a second German republic in 1944, they will have to fight a third world war in 1964."

DEWEY RETURNS TO CAPITAL TO MEET BRICKER

ALBANY, July 24—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey returned to Albany today from a weekend at his Pawling farm to arrange for a lengthy strategy conference, Wednesday, with Gov. John W. Bricker, his running mate on the Republican national ticket.

Gov. Dewey announced that the Republican vice presidential candidate will arrive here Wednesday morning, with Mrs. Bricker, and that he will be in conference with him all day Wednesday.

"We will discuss campaign issues and some of the problems which will be taken up during the campaign," the GOP presidential nominee said. "Gov. Bricker will go to New York City on Thursday to visit Republican national headquarters."

While GOP campaign plans are still in the process of formation, Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker are expected to work out a speaking schedule under which they will not strike the same cities, with one or two exceptions.

Both men are able talkers, and Republican leaders believe they will be able, between them, to cover a great deal of the country without an undue strain on transportation facilities. Bricker is expected to concentrate on the middle west, where he has a large and loyal following.

In the National League the St. Louis Red Birds seems to be trying for a new altitude record.

Gen. Heinz Guderian, Hitler's new chief of staff, that the army "has purged itself and freed itself from unclean elements," there were indications from various sources that the rebellion was still under way.

The London Daily Express quoted reports from the German frontier as saying that fights between the S. S. and regular army troops had taken place in Bordeaux, Limoges and Nantes, with the S. S. gaining the upper hand. Many German officers in France were said to have been arrested, while others have fled.

Himmler in Action

Himmler was said to have dispatched special liaison troops to France and to the eastern front as well.

The London Daily Herald quoted unconfirmed reports from the French frontier as saying that at least eight German commanders on the Russian front had been arrested or replaced.

Another dispatch from the Daily Telegraph said that Col. Gen. Johannes Von Blaskowitz, commanding the Bordeaux sector, ordered his troops last Monday to "prepare for any emergencies" and that he was recalled to German general headquarters Friday night and presumably arrested.

The United Nations radio at Algiers said that in addition to the eight commanders reported dismissed on the eastern front, several Nazi divisional commanders in France are reported to have been arrested. The broadcast, heard by Reuters, added that German army units and the S. S. have clashed at Bordeaux and Limoges.

From the Nazi agency DNB came the report that Lieut. Gen. Scheller, commander of an army group, and Maj. Gen. Von Streckow, army chief of staff, died "heroic deaths" fighting in "the forward line" in the Brest-Litovsk and Grodno sectors.

MOTHERS: THE FLETCHER'S CASTORIA NOW ON SALE IS SAFEGUARDED THREE WAYS!

Look for the Serial Control Number on each bottle

EVERY BOTTLE of Fletcher's Castoria—now on sale at your drugist's—bears a Serial Control Number.

This number is plainly visible through a "window" in the new package. It is your guarantee that Fletcher's Castoria is safeguarded by three different kinds of rigid tests . . . chemical, bacteriological, and biological.

Here's how you can easily identify the new package:

The Green Band... Around each package is a brilliant green band. This band quickly identifies the triple-tested Fletcher's Castoria now on sale.

The Serial Control Number... The Serial Control Number is on the bottle label. You can see it through a "window" in the outside carton.

We think that this visible evidence of quality and reliability... the Serial

Control Number on each bottle... will be welcomed by millions of mothers who have long used Fletcher's Castoria as the ideal laxative for children.

And we think that millions of mothers will be glad to know that Fletcher's Castoria—the laxative made especially for children—is now on sale at their drugist's.

For this is the original and genuine Fletcher's Castoria... the laxative that's mild and gentle, yet effective . . . the laxative that's pleasant-tasting, so you don't have to "force" your child to take it.

Ask for Fletcher's Castoria the next time your child needs a laxative.

Note: Until sufficient stocks can be made available, your drugist may not have enough Fletcher's Castoria on hand to meet all demands. If he happens to be out of stock when you ask for Fletcher's Castoria, please be patient. He will have it for you shortly.

RURAL FIRE RUNS MADE BY CITY FLAME FIGHTERS

Circleville firemen made two runs Saturday to rural areas to fires in wheat stubble fields.

At 2:35 p. m. they were called to the Kellenberger farm on Island road in Walnut township where fire burned over 60 or 70 acres of a cut wheat field. A straw stack, containing straw from 50 to 60 acres, was burned. Richard Dresbach is the tenant on the farm.

At 5:55 p. m. a straw baler belonging to Clarence Sawyer being used on the Richard Struckman farm in Madison township caught fire. Firemen said the baler was destroyed at a loss of approximately $400.

AIR MEDAL WON BY ALDENDERFER IN INDIA - BURMA

AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND BASE, INDIA—Award of the U. S. Army Air Medal to First Lieutenant Ralph W. Aldenderfer, of Circleville, O., was announced this week in a list of honors issued from the Headquarters of the Army Air Forces, India-Burma Sector, China-Burma-India theatre.

The Air Medal was bestowed "for meritorious achievement, by participating in more than 150 hours of operational flight in transport aircraft over the difficult and dangerous Assam-China air routes, where enemy interception and attack was probable and expected."

Award of the Air Medal covers Lieut. Aldenderfer's services as a co-pilot on the giant transport ships creating an "aerial pipeline of supply" between Indian bases, across the notorious Himalaya "Hump," to the United Nations' forces facing the enemy on the China battlefronts. The particular period of service mentioned stretches between September 2, 1943 and the 25th of January of the present year.

Lieutenant Aldenderfer makes his home at Route 4, Circleville.

New Sohio 100-Octane Refinery Supplies
Millions of Gallons of Aviation Fuel Each Week

"SUPER FORTS BOMB JAPAN AGAIN!"

"6,000 ALLIED PLANES RAKE INVASION FRONT!"

"BERLIN HIT BY BIGGEST DAY-NIGHT RAID!"

... Headlines that trace the path to victory! Behind them are epic stories of men—and planes—and gasoline.

One story of historic importance is that of Sohio's giant new 100-octane refinery—now making possible 1500 fighter plane sorties daily over the Channel to the invasion front.

Sohio EX-TANES, powerful petroleum ingredients for stepping-up combat fuel, have long been flowing from all Sohio refineries. Now, this great new plant in Cleveland adds millions more gallons a week to Standard Oil's aviation fuel output.

The Allies' relentless air attack calls for fabulous and unprecedented quantities of aviation gasoline. These requirements must be met—will be met. Sohio and Sohio workers pledge there will be no let-up in 100-octane production.

When peace comes again, these advanced refining facilities and the experience gained in making super fighting fuels will bring Ohioans the finest Sohio gasolines ever made.

LIFE UNDER THE NAZIS LIFE in a country is often best seen in its jokes. A current Romanian quip about Antonescu, the Nazified general who makes the country safe for Hitler, shows how Romania's lawless rulers hand out death on the slightest provocation:

A Romanian bursts into his house, and tells his wife to pack their baggage and flee. The reason: "A tiger has burst out of the zoo. Antonescu's police have been ordered to shoot it on sight."

"But we aren't tigers." "Don't be silly. How do you think we could prove that to Antonescu's police?"

No wonder that the Romanians eagerly await the first signs of Nazi downfall to regain their liberty.

OUR LOSSES THE army has lost more than a million men since the war began. This must be true, for it is a War Department announcement.

However, it is not so bad as it sounds. Of this number 922,000 represent discharges, 62,000 prisoners of war, and only 63,000 have been killed.

But the immense number of discharges makes clear why draft boards have to be tough.

THE DIRTY COLLAR "It does no good," says Albert M. Greenfield, realtor of Philadelphia, "for city planners simply to make central business easily accessible by all forms of transportation if they are to be left surrounded by a dirty collar of dwellings in disrepair. Our plans must include some workable method of reclaiming this land and putting it once more into productive use."

This is a keen description of any city with blighted downtown districts—like a man all dressed up to go, but forgetting to change his grimy collar, which is put into sharper contrast with freshened other garments.

Indianapolis real estate men, according to the Wall Street Journal, think they have the right solution to this problem which is plaguing cities with its ever-increasing gravity. They are against a glorious scheme of doing everything at once, "which looks good on paper but might prove too large and tough to be handled and thus might never be pulled out of planners' pigeonholes."

What community, it may here be asked, is without some beautiful dream of this sort? Some of them are thirty to fifty years old.

In Indianapolis they are selecting what seems to be the worst spot first, an area only two blocks by three. The plan is to acquire the land, clear out the houses, build good, simple housing and resell it, then do the next worst spot.

It's a good plan — if enough overall planning is done to keep the areas free from developing haphazard. It needs unity as well as variety of design.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Passenger Automobiles May Be in Production by March

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Look for new passenger automobiles to be built around next March if the war against Germany ends this year. That is the date tentatively agreed upon by the War Production Board and the auto industry.

All car production will be held up until Germany is defeated. But if that X-Day comes this year, the preliminary output schedule calls for a two million car quota in the early months of civilian production. That number will be a mere drop in the bucket beside the estimated 12 million automobiles which Americans will demand and need in the post-war period.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

BIG-CITY BOSSES CHICAGO — The smoke-filled room at the Democratic convention turned out to be Ed Flynn's suite in the Blackstone hotel. (Leo Crowley's might have been also, except that he doesn't permit smoking.)

It was from Ed Flynn's room that the big-city bosses put in the telephone call to "the boss in the White House" which got the delegates up in arms against city-boss dictation.

The boss in the White House wasn't in the White House at the time, but at another point, not easily accessible by telephone. However, FDR was finally reached by phone, and several of the big-city bosses took turns talking to him. Those present with Flynn were Boss Hague of Jersey City, Boss Ed Kelly of Chicago and Boss Bob Hannegan of the Democratic national committee.

Kelly and Hannegan did most of the talking. They wanted the President's O. K. on Senator Truman of Missouri for vice president—and they got it. In fact, the President, according to what they said after they hung up, wanted Truman to the exclusion of Wallace, Senator Barkley or any other vice presidential candidate.

It was after word of this dictum percolated out that Senator Barkley of Kentucky threatened to withdraw his speech nominating Roosevelt for a fourth term. Barkley indicated that, if the President didn't want him as vice president, then he didn't want F. D. Roosevelt as President.

Barkley's nominating speech had already been mimeographed and sent to the press, so the idea of his recalling his speech sent shivers up and down the spinal columns of the bosses.

Barkley didn't resent the letter Roosevelt wrote for Wallace. But he did resent the fact that the President, after telling the convention to debate "the pros and cons," then turned around and instructed the bosses that he definitely wanted Senator Truman. Barkley was spurred on by his son-in-law, Max Truitt, and by Max's law associate, Bill Stanley, former assistant to Attorney General Homer Cummings. Nevertheless, he was pretty sore on his own.

However, "Dear Alben" was not the only one who was sore. When word leaked out that the big-city bosses had talked to the White House boss and were swinging the convention to Truman, plenty of other delegates were sore too.

OLD FIGHT AGAINST MACHINES

What they objected to was that the convention should be run by the city machines of Chicago, the Bronx, Jersey City and St. Louis, which threw their weight in favor of a man who owed his political start to the city machine of Kansas City. It looked to a lot of delegates as if the big-city bosses were playing with their old friend, Kansas City's Tom Pendergast, now out of jail after serving his time.

All of this made some delegates who didn't like Henry Wallace climb on his bandwagon.

The fight between southern rural Democrats and the northern Democratic machines of New York, Chicago, Boston and other big cities, is old and deep-rooted. Woodrow Wilson suffered from it somewhat when he was nominated in 1912 through the support of Tammany and the Roger Sullivan machine in Chicago. Again in 1924, it split the party wide open when northern city Democrats demanded Al

DIET AND HEALTH A Child's Growth Usually Follows a Standard Pattern

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. THE NORMAL unfolding growth and development of the child's body, from birth to adolescence, follows an average standard.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ard pattern. The plans, the specifications of this pattern are remarkably rigid for the normal average individual.

It may seem to vary widely from person to person. There are those who are destined to be short people and those who are destined to be tall, fat, medium and lean. But granted that you can't lay down any mathematical rules for those types, all of them maintain quite exact body proportions and rate of growth.

One fellow may be four feet, eight and another six feet two, but in both of them if the arms are stretched out, and measurements made from finger tip to finger tip it will be exactly the same as the height, and the measurement of the length of the legs, from heel to the symphysis, the bone in the center of the body in front, is the same as from symphysis to the top of the head. In other words, no matter what the size of the person the proportions are kept the same. And, tall or short, the rate of growth of bone, the age at which the bones are laid down is the same.

Controlled by Ductless Glands This phenomenon of basic growth is controlled largely by two of the ductless glands—the thyroid and pituitary. Their influence is exerted on the bones and can be seen and adjudged by the X-ray.

Parents who know a little smattering of this by having read some of the popular accounts of the ductless glands in current literature are always fussing and wondering whether to give one or the other of their children some gland extracts to make it grow or to stop it growing, or to make it thin or fat, as the case may be.

There is just a grain or two of reason in these ideas, enough to make them worth consideration in some cases, but such treatment should be given or withheld in accordance with a full knowledge of the subject and common sense.

In the first place, slight deviations from the rigid pattern which I have laid down are not of consequence and should not be interfered with by artificial feeding of gland extracts. One boy may shoot up and seem to be all legs. Undoubtedly there is a time in his body an over-secretion of the pituitary, but before long Nature gets control and slows the pituitary down and he winds up a normal, average pattern. On this other one is definitely short and doesn't grow rapidly in the growth time period of adolescence. Very likely the thyroid has slowed up. But then old Mother Nature wakes up and gives the thyroid a jog and the little fellow suddenly within a year catches up with all his companions of the same age. These experiences are so common that you can see examples of them around you every day.

Test With X-ray Just when, or at what point, these allowable divergences go over into the definitely pathologic where treatment by gland extracts is indicated is a matter of judgment. One test if any parent is puzzled is to take an X-ray of the wrist and see the bone age as shown by ossification of the carpal bones. These little bones begin to ossify at very definite dates on the normal, average and the real age of the child (not the time age) is shown here best.

If the bone age is behind the time age and if the child is stunted in growth the use of thyroid extract does wonders.

Lessened thyroid secretion takes many different forms in childhood and does not show up as the classical cretinoid individual in any but a few instances. If a child seems backward mentally, or gains weight at the expense of height anywhere from the ages of three to eight, it is good sense to determine its bony development by the X-ray and if this indicates the necessity, to exhibit thyroid extract. It should be spotted in childhood because later is too late.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER FIFTEEN Irene shook her head and sat up. "I'm fine," she said calmly, "and for heaven's sake, you needn't worry about a diagnosis. I'll tell you... we're going to have a baby."

"That's fine news!" beamed Matthew. He took her in his arms and kissed her. "Lord, this is great!" He asked, "Have you seen Leming?"

"Today at lunchtime. It's true enough. I've suspected for quite a while, but I wasn't sure and—" "Some nurse you turned out to be, and as for me—" He chuckled. Then he said firmly, "Out of the office you must go."

Irene said, "I'm all right really, let me stay on a little while longer if only to break in a new nurse. I know one, and I think she'd come. You remember her, don't you? Elizabeth Nelson. She was in my class."

"Nelson?" He frowned. "Tall blond girl, good figure?" "That's the one," said Irene, laughing. "But it would be more to the point if you had remembered what a good nurse she is. She's tired of private duty and she wants to get married."

"Well," parried Matthew, "I don't like married women in an office, I—" "How about me?" "You're different. First thing you know Nelson will have a baby too."

They won't be able to afford even marriage, for a long while, said Irene, "and by then perhaps, our baby—" she stopped and said it again, softly, wonderingly—"our baby will be walking and I can leave him, with Nellie, and—" "You're way ahead of me," observed Matthew. He rose and looked down at her. "And it's time you went to bed. Doctor's orders."

"If Dr. Leming says I may stay on?" "Okay," Matthew agreed, "we'll leave it up to him. Boy, wait till Mother hears this!" "She knows. I told her tonight."

He looked disappointed, a little crestfallen, and Irene said sweetly, "I'm sorry, dear. But she suspected something and I had to tell her, didn't I?"

"Of course," He rose, leaned down, and kissed her. "This calls for a drink," he said as he went prowling out around the pantry and came back bearing a glass of champagne. He held it toward her and she touched the rim of the glass to her mouth. Matthew flung back his dark head and drank: "To my son!"

Irene watched him, smiling. She insisted upon going to the office the next morning. She felt remarkably well.

Matthew, between calls, managed to go to Dr. Leming's office. Leming—a big man, with enormous hands and a shock of fine white hair—grinned at Matthew. "So Irene's told you," "Yes. Row is she?" "How would she be? She's perfectly normal," said the older man. Matthew grinned cheerfully, but said, "She feels rotten."

"My dear boy, most of 'em do under such circumstances." "Sure," cautioned Matthew, "but this isn't just any woman, you understand."

"I do," declared Dr. Leming. "When my first child was born I made a fool of myself. Dr. Harley delivered her. He was the best then. All before your time, my boy." He was silent, remembering.

Matthew said, "Irene wants to keep on at the office for as long as she can. She... well, we've always worked together. She's my right hand, really. But it's up to you. And she's specially anxious to train the next candidate for the job."

Dr. Leming said, "Only if she feels up to it. She must not overdo. I knew Irene before you did. She had a cast-iron conscience. She is a perfectionist, poor girl. She'll worry more, and do herself more harm if she leaves the office—that is, at the present time—than if she stayed."

"All right," declared Matthew and rose. "Thanks and all that. I'm perfectly satisfied, as long as she's in your hands."

Matthew left Leming's office and returned to his own. He told Irene what Leming had said. She sat there, small and frail in her crisp white uniform, and listened. She promised, "I'll be good, I'll do just as he says. If you like, I'll ask Elizabeth to come to dinner one night this week. We could talk things over with her... she might come soon. I could train her, and perhaps relieve her now and then."

Matthew nodded. Then he said, "Bill's out on a case—looks like polio. Confound this rotten sultry weather anyway! And Sam's operating. Boy, wait till I tell them!"

Irene asked, "You want to tell them, now?" "Sure, why not? You don't mind, do you?" "No, of course not." She could imagine Matthew telling them, and Bill shouting, "Where are the cigars? Or if it's too soon, how about a cigarette?" and Sam with a slight hesitant speech saying, "Congratulations, Mat..."

But somehow she would have liked it to have been their secret for a little while, theirs and Mary's.

Once in a while, in flashes, he could read her mind, or part of it, or something she was thinking got across to him after a fashion, for he said now, "I'll try and stop in to see Mother today, if I can."

"Do," she said, "and give her my love."

The telephone rang on her desk and her even voice said, "Dr. Norman's office."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay "The Authority on Authorities"

ACT LIKE A DECLARER PLENTY of players do a thorough job of planning when in the role of declarer, sizing up the situation in each suit, counting the number of tricks apparently destined to be won or lost, or both, and looking for the places where additional ones may be developed or the means of cutting down losers. Many of these same players refuse to do the same work when on the defense, whereas they really should go through about the same processes before making a move.

Stars Say— For Monday, July 24 Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of continued progress in out of the routine programs, with faculties, forces and emotions under high tension under which it may be possible to achieve several unique or startling objectives. The mentality will be keyed to unusual matters, but carried to excess there may be reactions on the health and a nullification of desirable aims. There should be splendid stimuli for scientific invention, dramatic composition or acting.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual experiences, under pressure of highly stimulated forces, energies and creative abilities. It may bring forth unusual results in literary, dramatic or scientific invention, or other exceptional or spectacular expression. Unless this tension can be properly restrained or wisely directed there may be reactions.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally talented, original and independent, with a temperamental disposition.

Lieut. Jack Foresman Entertains By Proxy

Surprise Dinner Celebrates Birthday

First Lieutenant Jack Foresman, who is stationed in the Marshall Islands, entertained at a delightful surprise dinner Sunday at the Wardell party home, honoring his aunt, Miss Mary Foresman, of Columbus, on her birthday anniversary. Lieut. Foresman's mother, Mrs. Anna Foresman, of East Main street, served as hostess for the occasion in the absence of her son. Lieut. Foresman and his aunt had celebrated their birthday anniversaries jointly for many years, and this courtesy was arranged at his request by his mother.

The dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. at a beautifully arranged table set in the form of a T. Tall pink candles in twin crystal holders were at the ends of the table and a large, decorated birthday cake formed the centerpiece. Nutcup favors in pastel shades of pink, blue and yellow were at each cover, and the place of the absent host was marked with an American flag. Miss Foresman found at her place, a lovely birthday card from her nephew, wishing her many happy returns of the day and expressing regret in his absence.

Present in addition to Miss Foresman, the honor guest, and Mrs. Foresman were: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Crayne, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Heald, son, Gene, and daughters, Mary Ann and Donna, Mrs. Mildred Darcey, Ted Darcey, William Shea, Mrs. Ann Williams, Mrs. Lois Wall, Mrs. Rose McCoy, Mrs. Joe Duffy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dick, Mrs. Ann Miles and Mrs. Sadie Steinem, of Columbus.

Cpl. Mrs. Riegel Honored
Corporal and Mrs. Gayle A. Riegel were honored at an "open house" held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Willson Bosworth Sunday, July 23, from 2 to 6 p. m. This concluded a series of entertainments honoring the newly married couple, who will soon leave for Savannah, Ga., where Cpl. Riegel is stationed. Mrs. Riegel is the former Helen McCord, of near Circleville, and Cpl. Riegel is the brother of Mrs. Bosworth.

Miss Jeannette Wenrick, Stoutsville, played a beautiful and appropriate program of piano music during the course of the afternoon.

Refreshments were served from an attractively appointed table centered with a colorful arrangement of pink and yellow snapdragons. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Virgile Cline, Columbus; Mrs. Ben Nothstine, Ashville; Mrs. Boyd Spangler and Mrs. Raymond Riegel, Amanda; Mrs. Forrest Croman, Miss Ruth Kerr and Miss Alma Glick, Circleville.

About 100 guests were present from Columbus, Cincinnati, Amanda, Ashville, Laurelville, Circleville and Washington township.

Girl Scout Troop 2
The regular monthly meeting of the committee of Girl Scout Troop 2 was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Limbach, Montclair avenue, with Mrs. Limbach presiding. Present were: Miss Harriet McGath, troop leader, Mrs. Willis Green, newly appointed member of the committee; Miss Ruth Stout, and Mrs. Enid Denham.

Mrs. Denham was appointed secretary pro tem in the absence of Mrs. Reichelderfer. The recommendations of the central council were read and discussed by the group. Miss McGath told of the activities of her troop, and of the nature hike in which they participated. Plans were made for the coming investiture service. A training program was conducted by Miss Stout.

It was decided that an informal meeting be held at a future date to make more definite plans for the investiture ceremony to be held July 27, at St. Philip's parish house. Plans were made to send written invitations to mothers of the girls participating in this service and to serve refreshments.

Birthday Party
Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Canter, Northridge road, entertained at a birthday party honoring their son, Donald, on his ninth anniversary. After a series of games and contests, lunch was served at a long table on the lawn. Donald

The most important thing to remember in applying wax to floors or furniture is not to apply too much. Too much wax causes a streaky appearance, as the wax cannot absorb it, and it remains on the surface. A beautiful luster is obtained by thin coats of wax, allowed to dry thoroughly, then rubbed vigorously.

Bits on Books

By Enid Denham

Albert Maisal's book "The Wounded Get Back" is an up-to-date volume of medical accounting of a six-months trip and experiences in hospitals and hospital ships serving the South Pacific war zone. It portrays the excellent work that Navy doctors are doing in preparing for emergencies and caring for the sick and wounded. Although related by a layman in a non-technical interesting style, it is an authentic moving account that should be doubly reassuring to those at home who wonder just what sort of care can be given their loved ones in the rush and roar of the battle fronts. It is comforting to know that the wounded can get back, often full recovered, always in the best possible condition that the very best of medical minds and hands can achieve.

To say that Joseph Grew's book "Ten Years in Japan," is timely, authoritative and entertaining reading is to say little indeed of this vitally important diary of our ambassador to Japan. His analyses of those far reaching events in Manchuria, his reactions to the reactions of the Japanese as expressed in the press at the Nazi-Soviet economic pact, the Panay sinking, the policy of conciliation as opposed to the evasions of Japan's militarism are clear and contain much wisdom and understanding. If Mr. Grew give us less understanding of the masses of Japanese that is easy to see. A diplomatic round table is not the poor man's council nor do those in power consider the contacts of the common people. He does at least make clear the psychology of the ruling classes and the more subtle and hence fascinating statesmen. A few letters from the less educated individuals have been included in the diary, but they have been included, I believe, more for the humor, rather than for an insight into the writer. Mr. Grew was a hopeful man. He saw what was happening but hoped that it wouldn't. He tried with all honor to keep his country out of the conflict and it was not his fault that it was unsuccessful. As we read his book we can see and know the chain of events that led to the ultimate Pearl Harbor attack. A book of vigorous, genuine, oftentimes humorous anecdotes that are also valuable as history.

"All in a Twilight," by Allen Evans is the story of a prairie farmer and his wife, Emma. The first part of the book deals with Emma's reactions to the new life. Very new for she had been a schoolteacher unused to the hardships of central Canada that only seemed to make Big Burl Zither the stronger. This is not just another of those farm stories but a pleasant story of the adjustment of two people in love to the circumstances around them.

"Our New Baby" by Lil Peller may prove a great boon to parents worried over the adjustment of an older child to his new brother or sister. There are lovely pictures inviting the older child to help protect and take care of the new member and to enlarge his own part in the family circle rather than to feel "left out." In simple language too there are explanations for the endless sterilizing, bathing, the schedule of feeding and naps that even the pre-school tot can understand and cooperate with while he associates the brand new baby with what he himself once was.

These books may be secured at the Circleville Public Library.

Uncle Sam warns coal, oil and gas shortages will continue into next winter, with critical war industries still needing huge amounts of fuel to maintain their production. You can help conserve fuel by winterizing your home now through proper insulation. This is a thrifty step, too, because so much heat leaks through the roof, walls, windows and doors of your home. Experience has shown that insulation to reduce these losses soon pays for itself in savings.

INSULATE ON EASY TERMS

To encourage the saving of fuel, our government continues to permit long payment terms on home insulation. Buy on budget terms — up to 3 years — no down payment until November 1st. Your contractor can render better service if you order this work done now before cool weather comes.

TWILIGHT TEAR, PENSIVE TO HAVE COMPETITION

CHICAGO, July 24 — At last there appeared a prospect today that Twilight Tear, winner of 11 straight races, and Pensive which won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, will have some real competition.

The Arlington park management announced today that 15 turf stars, have been named for the $50,000 added Arlington handicap next Saturday at Washington park to test their speed with that of the Warren Wright pair.

Among them are Coward and Dupuy's Marriage, winner of the handicap last year; Allen Drumheller's Georgie Drum, which captured this year's Stars and Stripes handicap; Tola Rose, Old Kentuck, Princequillo, Ended, Valinda Foe, War Knight, Challenge Me, The Finest, Daily Trouble, Equifox, Bushwhacker, Saito and Majames.

The big list of entries, in sharp contrast to the skimpy fields that have been willing to try conclusions with the Calumet farm duo, particularly Twilight Tear, was explained by the fact that many of the owners hope to get favorable weights for the mile and a quarter grind.

Only three opposed Twilight Tear and Pensive in the Arlington classic last Saturday in spite of the $62,050 purse that went to the winner. Twilight Tear won easily by two lengths, while Pensive furnished Owner Wright another $5,000 by finishing third. Old Kentuck ran second. Challenge Me Fourth and American Eagle fifth.

The record smashing round saw the great Jug whip in seven birdies, one eagle and ten pars, while Nelson ran into hard luck with putts that rimmed the cup.

McSpaden played a thrilling 63—nine under par—in the morning round of the tournament Sunday, to overcome a four-stroke lead held by Nelson and break the course record of 65 set in 1937.

McSPADEN SETS RECORD TO WIN UTAH TOURNEY

SALT LAKE CITY, July 24—Lanky Harold (Jug) McSpaden, stellar Philadelphia golf artist, today held a new course record for the Fort Douglas links, established in defeating Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., in the $2,500 Utah open golf tournament.

McSpaden played a thrilling 63—nine under par—in the morning round of the tournament Sunday, to overcome a four-stroke lead held by Nelson and break the course record of 65 set in 1937.

BILL NICHOLSON SETS TWO HOMER HITTING MARKS

Cub Fielder Has Four in Row And Four in Doubleheader

NEW YORK, July 24—The Chicago Cubs, who, in the first six weeks of the 1944 season were the well-beaten scapegoats of the National League, today claim the services of a record-breaking home run hitter—Outfielder Bill Nicholson.

The Cubs split a twin bill with the New York Giants Sunday, winning the opener, 7 to 4, and losing the nightcap, 12 to 10. Nicholson split the fences with four homers. After getting a circuit clout in the last round of Saturday's Cubs-Giants opener, Bill walked in the first inning of yesterday's initial game, then blasted three circuit blows.

In doing so, Nicholson set a modern National League record of four homers in four official times at bat, Bobby Lowe being the last NL batter to achieve four straight, and that in 1894. But that wasn't all. Nicholson went on to hit another circuit smash in the nightcap to set a new league mark of four homers in a double-header.

A record of a different kind was set in the same twin bill when Managers Charley Grimm and Mel Ott each used seven pitchers in the second game. The old major league record in number of pitchers employed was set by the Cubs and Reds in 1942 when each used six flingers.

Records or no records, the St. Louis Cards widened the gap between themselves and the rest of the league when they trounced the Boston Braves in both ends of a doublebill, 3 to 2 and 5 to 2. Nate Andrews fell victim to three Boston errors in the opener, Fred Schmidt getting a relief victory. Mort Cooper won his 12th of the season in the second game as Al Javery was charged with his 14th defeat of the year.

The Philadelphia Phillies nosed out the Cincinnati Reds in the opener, 7 to 6, but lost the afterpiece when Ray Mueller lifted a seventh-inning homer to give the Reds a 2 to 1 triumph. Bucky Walters blew a six-run lead in the first game, but the winning run was scored off Harry Gumbert. Clyde Shoun pitched air-tight ball in the closing game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers mired themselves more deeply in the cellar when they blew two to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 5 and 9 to 4 in 11 innings. The only bright ray for the Dodgers was seen in Dixie Walker's performance in boosting his lead for league hitting honors over the Cards' Stan Musial. Dixie blasted four for four in the first and grabbed another hit in the nightcap.

In the American League, the Cleveland Indians climbed from fifth to fourth place with a double triumph over the Washington Senators, 4 to 3 and 9 to 5. Heving was credited with a relief win in the opener, with Dutch Leonard being charged with the loss. Four double plays aided Mel Harder in winning the afterpiece.

The Detroit Tigers dropped from fourth to fifth place when they were beaten twice by the Philadelphia Athletics, 13 to 3 and 3 to 2. Don Black took the opener as his mates pounded out 19 hits and Jesse Flores outlasted Stubby Overmire in the second start.

The St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox split, the Red Sox winning the first contest, 12 to 1, but dropping the second, 9 to 3. Tex Hughson racked up his 15th victory on a six-hitter in the opener. Vern Stephens helped the Browns to their win with a four-run homer.

The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox split, the Yankees taking the initial game, 7 to 6, then falling under the Sox batting attack for a 10 to 6 loss.

CIRCLEVILLE 9 SCORES 8-7 WIN AT WASHINGTON

Circleville senior baseball team Monday held an 8-7 victory over the Washington Eagles, scored Sunday at Washington C. H.

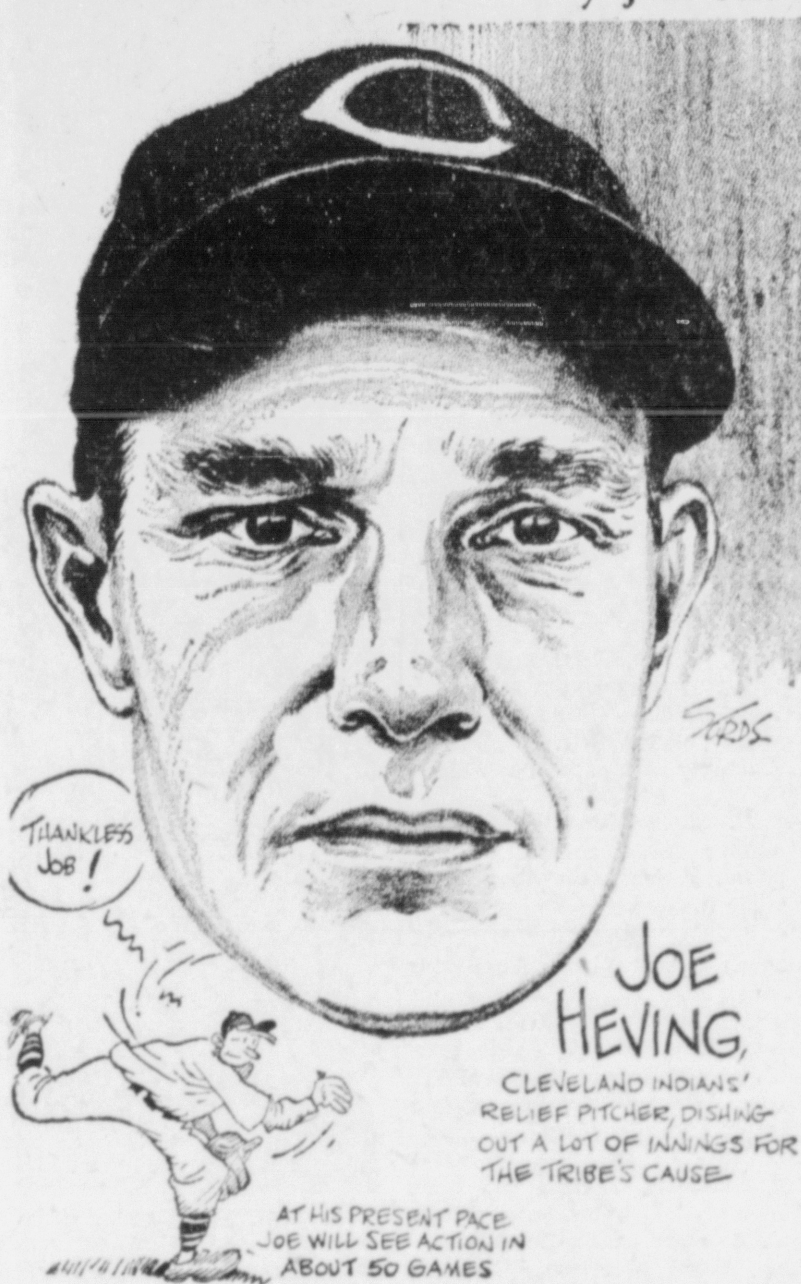

Despite six-hit pitching of Paul "Bucky" Walters, Naval air cadet home on leave, the locals trailed most of the game. A five-run rally in the second inning gave the host team a 6-0 lead. Circleville scored first in the fourth, then counted three runs in the seventh and four in the eighth to win.

"Wink" Wellington hit an inside-the-park homer for the visitors.

Wilbur Dorman, who took over the pitching duties late in the game, was charged with the loss.

TRIBE CLIMBS RED BIRDS DROP TO 4TH PLACE 10 FULL GAMES WITH TWIN WIN BEHIND BREWERS

CLEVELAND, July 24 — The Cleveland Indians were in fourth place in the American League standings today following their double victory yesterday over the Washington Senators.

The Tribe won the opener, 4 to 3, with Joe Heving, who relieved Al Smith in the seventh inning, gaining credit for the win. The veteran Mel Harder went all the way to win the nightcap, 9 to 5. He set the Nats down with 11 hits while his teammates clubbed three Washington pitchers for 13 blows, including a triple by Byrl Hoag.

JOE DONNELLY RESIGNS AS LIMA CLUB PRESIDENT

LIMA, O., July 24—Joe Donnelly, of Columbus, who reorganized the Class D Ohio State baseball league this Spring, was job hunting today and officials of the

By International News Service
Hopes of the Columbus Red Birds to replace Milwaukee in first place in the American Association pennant race took a dip downward today as the Flock dropped to 10 games behind the league leading Brewers.

Columbus lost two full games to the Brewers in suffering a double defeat at the hands of the Louisville Colonels, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, as the Brewers, themselves, punched out an easy 3-2 and 4-1 twin triumph over St. Paul.

Not only did the double beating put the damper on Columbus' hopes of overtaking Milwaukee, it also cut the Flock's lead over third-place Louisville to 1 1/2 games.

Al Widmar, Louisville reliever, was credited with victory in both games with the Red Birds. Art Lopatka was the victim in the first game and Kenny Burkhardt, who hadn't lost to Louisville in three years, was charged with the loss in the nightcap.

Milwaukee failed to exhibit its usually powerful form at the plate in its doubleheader with St. Paul, but whatever the back hits of the Brewers didn't do, their pitching did. Owen Schetz set the Saints down with four hits in the opener and Don Hendrickson effectively scattered nine in the afterpiece.

After winning the opening game, 5 to 2, the Minneapolis Millers were shut out with four hits in the seven inning nightcap as Kansas City clubbed three Miller pitchers for eight hits and a 5 to 0 victory. Bill Davis was the winning pitcher, going the entire route for the Blues.

Toledo and Indianapolis broke even in their double bill, the Indians winning the first game, 3-1, and Toledo copping the seven-inning second contest, 13-4.

MUELLER'S HOMER GIVES REDS SPLIT WITH PHILS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 24 — A home run by Catcher Ray Mueller with one mate aboard in the seventh inning today had given the Cincinnati Reds a 2 to 1 nightcap victory over the Philadelphia Blue Jays in a doubleheader in which the Reds lost the opener, 7-6.

Bucky Walters, who started on the mound for the Redlegs in the opener, was relieved after 5 1/2 innings in which he was clubbed for nine hits. Harry Gumbert, who went in to stem the Philadelphia uprising, was chased after giving up two hits in 1 1/2 innings. Arnold Carter blanked the Blue Jays in finishing the seven-inning contest. The loss was charged to Gumbert.

Clyde Shoun, who set the Blue Jays down with five hits, was the winning pitcher in the nightcap.

For today's game with the Blue Jays, which will wind up the four-game series, Red Manager Bill McKechnie nominated Carter to take the mound against the Jays' Bill Gerheuser.

Lima club were seeking a new president and general manager. Donnelly, who was the league's first president, resigned Saturday. He said he planned to enter war work. No reason for his resignation was given.

BUCK GRIDDER'S PLEASE BACKERS UNDER HOT SUN

Freshmen, 4-F Players Show Promise For Next Fall's Stiff Campaign

COLUMBUS, July 24 — There was real cause for Columbus' Monday Morning Quarterbacks to set up and shout today after watching Coach Carroll Widdoes' freshmen, 4-F Ohio State university footballers in action Saturday, the annual inter-squad classic.

The final score was 32 to 12 in favor of the first team Scarlet, but the final result strictly secondary to the hopes for 1944 displayed by the second-team Whites, as well as the winning Scarlet eleven.

From Coach Widdoes down to the last of the 6500 fans who braved a broiling sun to watch the '44 preview there was complete satisfaction. Head Man Widdoes termed the impressive display of might and power as "satisfactory from every angle" and the downtown quarterbacks looked on with equal zest, hoping for something—anything—better than what happened to the Buckeye's draft-riddled footballers of Paul Brown last year.

And the display put on by the 58-man squad, composed almost entirely of green, untried high school pigskinners with a few hold-overs from 1943 completing the organization, gave real hopes of an improved, consistent-winning Buckeye football clan.

But while all this expresses strict optimism, it isn't to be construed as an assurance that the Bucks will win 'em all next Fall. No sir. In fact, they'll almost sure to lose to one or two of the Navy-bolstered squads they bump up against. But in competition with Western conference schools (without Navy-loaned players) Ohio State will be able to give a pretty good account of itself.

Aside from the whole, general showing of the 58-man squad, Buckeye fans repeated over and over the name of Tom Keane, triple-threat sensation from Belaire, Summing up the game, Coach Widdoes had plenty to say about the 17-year-old star's defensive efforts and he contributed enough in the way of passing, running, punting and signal-calling to mark him easily as the game's standout.

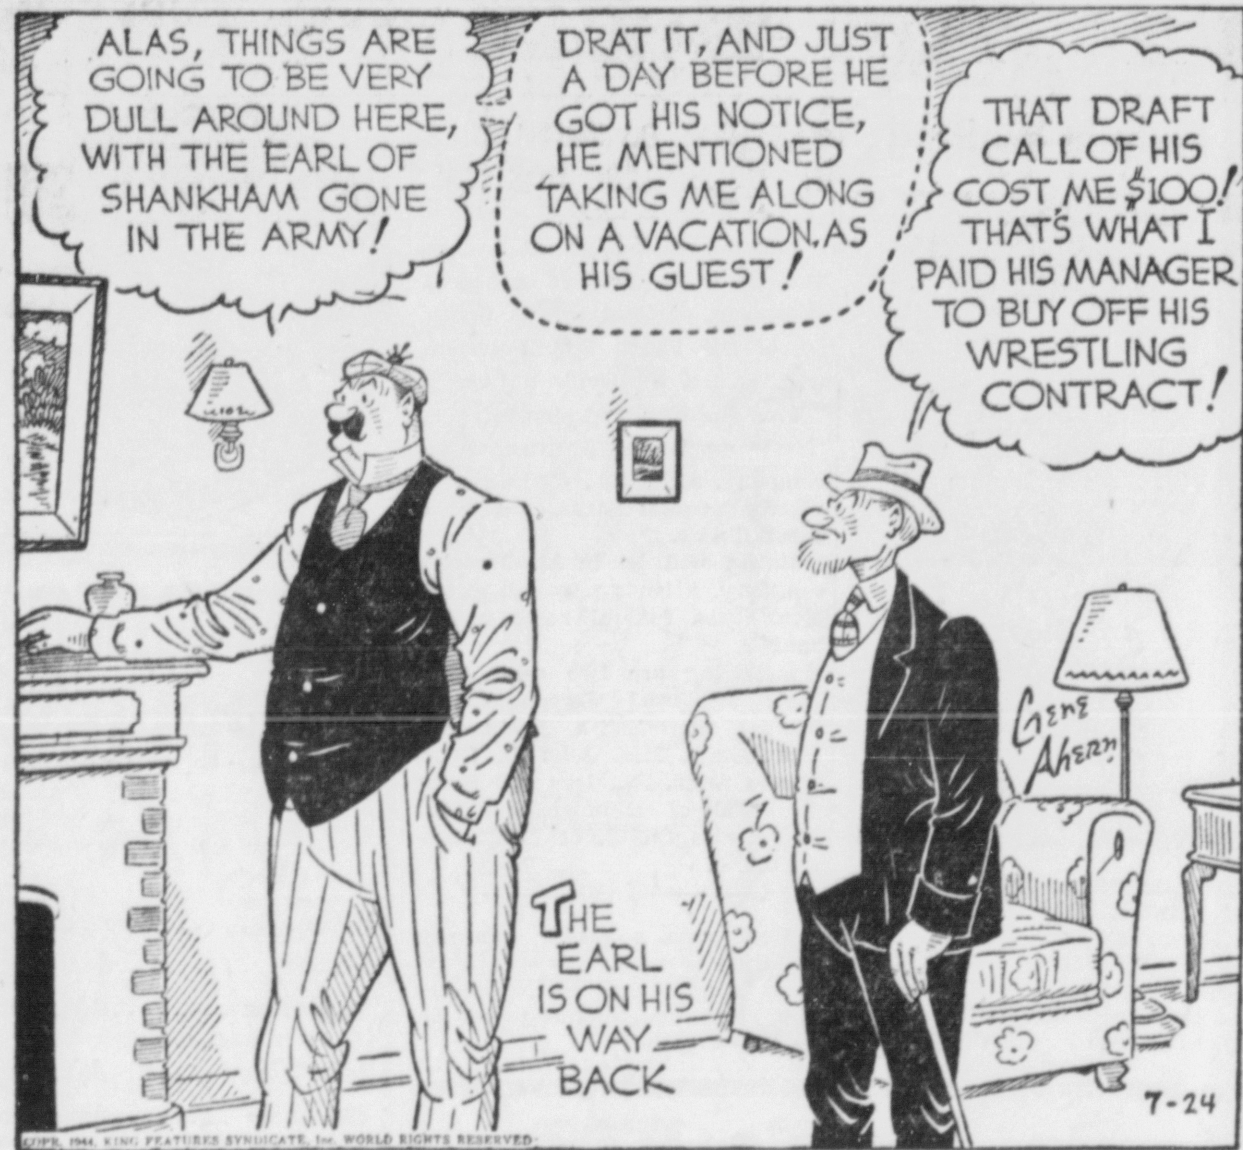

In the line "Deacon" Bill Willis, Columbus Negro star and one of the half dozen carryovers from last year, was the dominant figure. In effortless fashion, the Deke completely monopolized the line play. But Warren Amling, who played with the Whites, was the biggest Bugaboo to the slippery Scarlet ball carriers. He played as a sophomore with the national champions of 1942 and was made available again when he was discharged by the Army.

The Scarlet's starting backfield, which included in addition to Keane (pronounced Kane) Dick Flanagan, of Sidney, and Robert Brugge, of Parma, at the halfbacks, and Ollie Cline, of Fredricktown, at fullback, looks like a cinch for next year's starting assignments. They functioned perfectly together and all four showed individual talents and abilities which will go to make the Buckeye backfields a serious threat to any team.

Two Former Ashville Children Drown At Buckeye Lake

SHIRLEY, ROBERT CLINE DIE WHEN BOAT UPSETS

Father Clings To Boy And Girl Until Arrival Of Rescuers

Funeral arrangements were being completed Monday for two young Ashville natives who were drowned about 4 p. m. Sunday when an outboard motorboat, in which they were riding with five adults, capsized in Buckeye Lake.

Bodies of Shirley Mae Cline, 3, and her brother, Raymond Clark, 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cline, were at the Edwin F. Schlegel funeral home in Ashville while an investigation of the tragic accident was being made at the lake by Licking county authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline and their children moved from Ashville to Columbus about a year and half ago. Cline is employed at the Omar Baking company and the family was spending a two-day vacation at the lake, won by the father in a recent contest, when the tragedy happened.

Boat Filled According to reports, Cline, his two children, John M. Cline, uncle of the children; Mr. and Mrs. William Ward and Mrs. Julia Kulish, all of Columbus, started out for a boat ride about 2 p. m. Sunday. They were about 200 yards off shore when the boat upset. All were rescued except the two children. Their bodies were recovered in about 15 feet of water an hour and a half after the accident. John Cline was reported to be pilot of the boat.

The rescue of the adult members of the party was accomplished by Jud Ortmann and another member of the Buckeye Lake Yacht Club with a sailboat. J. Stanley Billows, manager of the Crystal ballroom at the lake, said the father had the children locked between his legs, but that his grip was broken when rescuers started to pull him into the sailboat.

The tragedy occurred while the mother of the children, Mrs. Ruth Cook Cline, was preparing dinner at the lakefront cottage the family was occupying.

Inquiry Under Way Dr. G. W. Sapp, Licking county coroner, and Sheriff William McElroy investigated the accident but no verdict has been returned.

Besides their parents the children are survived by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Cline of Ashville and Mr. and Mrs. Parker Cook of near Ashville.

Shirley Mae was born February 15, 1941, in Ashville. Raymond Clark was born April 27, 1939, in Ashville.

Funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Ashville United Brethren church, Rev. O. W. Smith officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery.

OWI, With Truth as Its Ablest Weapon, Winning Bitterly-Fought War of Words

IN CHUNGKING—A host of Chinese crowd into the New Life Center in Chungking to view a radiophoto demonstration. Some 65,000 awed Chinese viewed the American miracle of transmitting pictures by radio.

OWI pamphlets range from a 48-page booklet telling the story of the American conquest of Tarawa to a review of Greek participation in the United Nations war effort. Some 450,000 pocket calendars were printed in Italian, Portuguese and Spanish. One million, 500 thousand copies of the pamphlet describing treatment of Italian prisoners of war were distributed.

On a more elaborate scale are the publications "Victory," a picture magazine, and "U. S. A.," an OWI version of Readers Digest. When "Victory" first was placed on sale in Spain, 10,000 copies were sold in two days.

It sells for from 20 to 35 cents, depending on the country, and is printed in English, Portuguese, Spanish, French, Italian and Arabic. In Baghdad, Victory's sales were five times greater than any newspaper. Some copies of USA were printed in Dutch and German for air delivery.

Achievement in Iceland One of OWI's greatest triumphs was achieved in Iceland, where the people were at one time generally hostile to Americans. When the Nazis bombed the country and injured an Icelandic youth, an American university promptly offered the boy a scholarship. Arrangements have now been made for 10 more scholarships.

The 120,000 residents of Iceland are a highly cultured people, supporting 100 regularly published newspapers and magazines. The OWI furnishes news to the Icelandic press and broadcasts talks on music and art to the people. Recently, the Icelandic government asked the agency to help it develop a public relations program beamed to the outside world. The Chungking office of OWI.

And it was fanned into flames against this convention.

Remarked one Democrat who has battled for Roosevelt during twelve long years: "Roosevelt has been dictating to the party for so long that you boys don't know what to do without being dictated to. He turns the convention loose — and what is the first thing you do? You run to the telephone and ask him to do some more dictating."

NOTE—What many delegates wondered was what prosecutor candidate Tom Dewey would do with a Democratic ticket on which the Vice President was a product of Pendergast, picked by Pendergast's old cronies. Senator Truman is a man of scrupulous honesty, with a great reputation for cleaning up war inefficiency. But nevertheless, many argued that a city-boss product, picked by city bosses, would just be playing right into the hands of Dewey.
